

Wake Forest, the Mental Health Association and a host of community partners invite you to

TEAMMATES

FOR LIFE

Leveraging the positive power of teen networks

Monday April 16
at 6:30 p.m.
LJVM Coliseum

Featuring former major league pitcher John Trautwein's personal story of tragedy and hope. When John and his wife Susie lost their teenage son Will to suicide in 2010 they saw no warning signs that their popular and apparently happy son was struggling. To raise awareness about teen suicide and the challenges our teens face in today's world, they created the Will to Live Foundation. The Will to Live Foundation is on a mission to encourage kids to "talk about it" and serve as Teammates for Life as they encounter life's sorrows and joys.

Join thousands of teens and parents from across the Triad as we fill the LJVM with hope and inspiration and become Teammates for Life.

Free and open to the public

A Mission to Care. A Mission to Cure.

